As all three of us sat at the table to talk about my progress sheet. Mrs Kim Placed my folder onto the table and stated that I was on probation again for my practical grades. I said okay and ask which practical made my precentage drop? And what is my precentage now? She didn't answer the first question, but she told me that my precentage is 67.43% Mrs. Kim place my progress report sheet in front of me so that I can look at it. Then she stated that I need a 70% to obtain my financial Aid. I answered yes I know that, so what are you telling me? And Paul said that the school is taking away your financial Aid. is when actions will be taken about that student. He respond Well something like that, but you were on probation for the same thing twice. And we have to take away your financial Aid. So you will have to become a cash student. I didn't say anything as I became speechless and overwhelmed with emotion as my eyes teared up. They both said that I may leave for the rest of the day. I ask what about Next week. Paul answered that me, him, and Mrs. Debbie will have to sit and come up with a payment plan for me. I said okay in agreement and ask can I return on Monday to have that meeting. Paul told me yes I may. And on that afternoon he will talk to Mrs. Debbie about me becoming a cash student. I gather my things and left for the rest of the day. I returned back to school on Monday morning June 16, 2008 to talk to Mrs. Debbie and Paul. Mrs. Debbie came out her office with Mr. Paul. I informed Mrs. Debbie why I was there. And she quickly respond to me. She said No, I can't be a cash student. She gave me two options 1.) I can pay what I owe D'Jay's in full to return to school 2) Wait six months before I can reapply for financial aid again.

As my emotion began to overwhelmed me again I started to cry. I walked out of the office to clean out and gather my things out of my locker. As the word quickly spread through out the school that I will no longer be a student many of my classmates came up to me crying and upset. Mrs. Kim came to me saying that she was sorry and that she tried to get them to change thier minds. I told her that it was okay it just wasn't meant for me as this point in time. We hug and I left D'Jay's never to return as a student.
